Chicago Athletic Association Hotel + Art Design Chicago are pleased to present the latest iteration of its Storytelling Series. Although Chicago is not often thought of as an epicenter for new media art, technology, or industry, the city was home to some of the earliest and most important experiments in new media in the late 20th century. This largely untold story of Chicago's role in the history of new media is illuminated in the exhibition, Chicago New Media 1973-1992, presented by Video Game Art Gallery as part of Art Design Chicago. The exhibition's curator Jon Cates talks with artist Jeffrey Daniels about the legacy of Chicago's pioneers and their influence on digital art practice today.

This complimentary event will take place in the Drawing Room Library at 11:00AM with seating first come, first served. RSVP: chicagoathleticevents.com/tc-events/storytelling-series-with-art-design-chicago-jon-cates-and-jeffrey-daniels
